Now Shown to Be Anchor

DEFLATION MAKES DEPRESSION

Clear Cut Statements
May Apply to Canada

One of the most clear-cut and understandable statements in regard to the present economic situation and one manner in which it can be improved drastically and immediately is contained in an article in the September 16, 1933 issue of Liberty Magazine. It is from the pen of Irving Fisher, Professor of Economics at Yale University, and internationally known student and economist, and while it is written primarily with the situation in the United States in mind, conditions in Canada and in that country are so similar that it well might be written with regard to this Dominion.

An added interest is given Professor Fisher's statement by reason of the fact that Stephen Leacock, Professor of Economics at McGill University, outlasting Canadian authority, recently came out boldly with the announcement that the only way out of the present economic morass for Canada lay through the drastic and immediate inflation of money.

Following the utterances of Sir Hon. R. B. Bennett on his return from England a few days ago, and the general interest in matters financial and economical in Canada at the present time, together with the effects of the National Recovery Act in the United States and the keen interest with which it is being followed on both sides of the line, the Bulletin feels that Professor Fisher's article in Liberty and its accompanying graphs should be in the hands of every reader of this paper. It is therefore reproduced in full below.

EDITOR.

FOR about a year much has been heard of "inflation." To some it has been a bogey; to others a hope. At first the word was frightened people. Victims of the German inflation in 1922 were confounded by some of the bankers. When the Goldborough bill passed the House of Representatives last year, these bankers very nearly fainted.

But all that the bill aimed at was that the Federal Reserve banks and the Secretary of the Treasury should raise prices on the average up to their level before the depression.

—practically just what President Roosevelt is now trying to do—and to hold that level steady.

So we see that what a year ago was a bogey man now seems to be our anchor of hope!

Well, then, is inflation good or bad? It is both, according to circumstances. I have for years been shouting from the housetops how bad inflation is. Yet now I am an enthusiastic advocate for a certain amount of inflation—which I call deflation—as an antidote for the bitter dose of deflation which I have had to swallow.

And this is not because I have changed my mind. I am as much opposed to inflation in general as I ever was.

This is all very confusing to people who have never before thought about money in relation to the price level.

What is inflation anyhow? Inflation of money is any increase in the circulation of money. It always means, therefore, prices do rise, this rise is called inflation of prices. As inflation of money causes inflation of prices, and as the two go together, we can use the word "inflation" for either or both.

In the same way, deflation means lessened money circulation and lowered prices.

When prices in general rise we may say that the dollar falls, because its purchasing power is lessened. But the instance from the beginning of the World War up to 1929 the general level of prices in this country more than doubled, which means that the purchasing power or value of the dollar was cut in half. That was a great inflation.

We have just had an opposite example. Since the halcyon days of 1929 up to the end of the Hoover administration, the price level of commodities was nearly cut in two, which means that the dollar's value was nearly doubled.

So inflation means more money circulated, a higher price level—that is, a cheaper dollar. Deflation means less money circulated, a lower price level—a dearer dollar.

The price level is measured by an "index number." I publish an index number in the newspapers every Monday. The price level of 1926 is the "base" from which we measure and is called, for convenience, 100. When President Roosevelt came in, his index registered the lowest price level for many years. It was 55. That is, on the average, prices were then 55 per cent. of what they had been in 1926.

At I write, my index is over 80. So we have recently had two price movements—a big deflation from prices sinking on the average from 100 to 55; and, since March 4, a little inflation with prices rising from 55 to over 80.

What we want to be sure of is whether this inflation is right or wrong and whether we need more of it.

Two months ago, I had said that there could be a case where deflation was right. I would have been disputed by most people. But today few people, even bankers, dispute the fact that inflation, so far, has been a good thing. It has corrected a bad thing—deflation.

This deflation was the very essence of the depression. Prices had, as I have said, fallen from 100 to 55, or nearly by half, so that the dollar had nearly doubled. Farm prices had fallen more than by half, so that the so-called "farmer's dollar" had more than doubled. This does not mean that the farmer was twice as well off—quite the contrary. When I say that the "farmer's dollar" I do not mean the dollar he had but the dollar he had to get. He had to sell twice as much produce to get it. If he had sold his farm in 1926 for $10,000 and owed $10,000 on March 4, 1933, he really owed more than $20,000 as dollars were in 1926.

Noting the opposite was often beyond his power. Therefore, mortgagees were being foreclosed. He resisted the sheriff. He embarked on "milk strikes."

Why did the farmer, our most conservative citizen, do these desperate rational things? Because he knew that he was in a bad way, that a great injustice. Something outside of himself had doubled his debt burden.

The recent inflation from 55 to 80 has corrected, in part, this great injustice, and the course that was right. And our need now is that of it—enough more to take the whole swelling out of our swollen dollar—in fact, to reduce it to normal.

BOWSER QUILTS AS LEADER IN B.C. ELECTION

Collapse of His Group Adds to Chaos in Coast Province

VANCOUVER, Sept. 11.—Dropping the leadership of the national movement, which he was leading in the present British Columbia election campaign, and throwing in the lot with the independent candidates who refuse to join Hon. S. F. Tolmie's union government party, but who still find they favor a union government but under the leadership of the present premier, W. J. Bowser, himself a former premier and attorney general of B.C., who added to the general chaos of the British Columbia election picture.

At the situation now stands the Conservative party, which at dissolution held 36 of the 48 seats in the house, will not have a candidate in the field. Starting off with one of the strongest supporting organizations in the history of the province the Tolmie government finally finds itself in the present campaign without a single elected-in-the-wind. Conservative candidates daring to run on a straight Conservative ticket.

The car disappeared down a lonely road in the direction of Baton Rouge, the state capital.

Hours after the break the convicts were still at large and no trace of their car had been found.

Cuba Must First Answer Own Puzzle

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Reception of President Bacon Grau San Martin's regime today was regarded as a question to which Cuba's new government itself must supply the answer.

Receiving the news, the president and his cabinet, at a conference today, tried to make a statement to the press, but the president's ability to make a statement was held in doubt by the Cuban people. It was his first public appearance since he fled from the island.

It was considered unlikely that Mr. Roosevelt would reveal the news, which was already in Cuba, to the world. The rain was fairly heavy on Sunday morning, but the sun broke through at intervals.

No sooner had Mr. San Martin pledged himself to "fulfill entirely the revolutionary program" than 300 former army officers demanded to stop aid in favor of Carlos Manuel de Céspedes, whose brief regime began a month ago.

Mystery of Stolen Paintings Cleared When Paul Thoun Commits Suicide After Killing Officer.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.—Paul Thoun, 28, arrested following the shooting of Acting Investigator James MacKinnon of the Canadian Pacific Railway police at Lacombe, where Thoun was found dead in provincial police cells today. Examination showed Thoun had stabbed himself.

According to Chief Louis Jarmelle, head of provincial police detectives, Thoun had concealed some poison in the heel of his shoe. Thoun had been in the city for the night and took the poison. He was found in the police cells today.

Thoun had been captured after James MacKinnon, Pacific Railway investigator, was fatally wounded Friday at Lacombe, 30 miles from here, in a pistol shot when two men discovered breaking into railway cars.

When Thoun was told Friday night MacKinnon had died, he wept bitterly. Saturday he appeared in court, apparently sane, but when MacKinnon's restoration, directed police, was seen where the paintings were hidden here.

Thoun was found unconscious in his cell. He died shortly afterward.

Thoun had been concealed in the heel of his shoe, according to detectives. He had been in the city for the night and was lying near the man.

INFLATION IN U.S. FORESEEN BY WALLACE

Popular Demand May Follow Lag in Farm Prices

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—While well-informed quarters believe President Roosevelt is opposed to inflation, the question is again given a certain prominence by the remarks of secretary of agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

In a weekend interview, Secretary Wallace told newspapermen a lag in farm prices might be expected for the next three months and a demand might arise from the people for a "big dose of inflation."

Using 100 as the index for farm purchasing power, Mr. Wallace said it rose in July 1933 and has since receded to between 120 and 130.

In short, the price of overalls is going up and the price of hogs slipping.

POLISH CREW GET LEAD IN BALLOON RACE

Landed in Quebec Eight Hundred Miles From Start

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The Polish crew in the Jaques Gignac Bonnet international balloon race, whose landing at Lemaire, Que., was last night made known over the week-end, were accorded an unofficial lead in the distance race by race officials here last night.

The spot where Captain J. Hynick and Lieutenant Zdzislaw Burzinski landed was estimated roughly to be about 400 miles from Chicago. They arrived in Riviere a Pierre, Que., Saturday night to announce their balloon had settled to earth 90 miles north of Lemaire, a small station on the Canadian National railway between the city of Quebec and Montreal.

Commander T. G. W. Settle, pilot of the United States army entry, landed at Bradford, Conn., a distance of approximately 790 miles from Chicago.

WHITE-COLLAR WORKERS ARE TO BE HELPED

But British Politicians Are Ducking New Bill Which Must Pass Soon

By THOMAS C. WATSON
Special to Edmonton Bulletin
LONDON, Sept. 11.—The British government is working on a new white-collar bill.

It is proposed that the "white-collar" worker may have to consider a scheme of national health and unemployment insurance, and many government members are frowning the bill.

It is the government's new unemployment insurance bill which will affect millions of the people of Great Britain. Within the next few weeks the cabinet will have to register its final decision.

The bill will become law by next March to take the place of the present measure. It is possible that parliament will be called together ten days or a fortnight earlier than the date fixed for assembly—November 7—in order to make progress with the measure.

One important question on which agreement has already been reached is that.

The minister of labor shall administer all unemployment relief whether inside or outside the scheme—thus removing the "poor law" taint.

The "white-collar worker" whose lot has often been so tragic when unemployment comes on him, is to be catered for. With many others who are at present outside the scope of any relief except the poor law, will be covered by "unemployment assistance."

Hundreds of thousands of unemployed "white-collar workers" will get relief under the new scheme, which will be far more comprehensive than any that has preceded it.

With exceptions for certain workers earning up to £5 a week will be included.

ENGLAND NOW PEACE RETREAT FOR EINSTEIN

Contentedly Hidden Pending October Trip to States

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Professor Albert Einstein, fleeing reported Nazi threats against his life, went from London Sunday to the quiet spot on the east coast of England, known only to a few persons. Already working on a new mathematical theory, he said he planned to lecture in the United States in October.

Sitting in a small hut in a garden facing the North Sea, the professor looked calmly at the world as he puffed his pipe and spoke of the Nazi threat against him.

"All I want is peace, and when could I find a more peaceful retreat than in England?" he asked a visitor.

"At Le Coo (Le Coo-Sur-Mer), Belgium I was always guarded. It was a terrible strain, and a great responsibility to put on the British police. I interfered with my work. My friends invited me here and I hope to stay in England for a month."

No one will know where I am until October when I go to America. I am leaving for London in a quiet way, working out my mathematical problems."

Comment: Oliver Locker-Lampson, his host, who was standing by, said the professor was engaged on a new mathematical theory, but the professor did not say what the new theory was.
